

Disclaimer

La Raza Lawyers Association, Central Valley Chapter (“LRLA”) strongly urges anyone using this website to conduct their own thorough research or other investigation in connection with his or her use of any of the information contained on this webpage, and to determine for themselves the accuracy, completeness, vitality, utility, and fitness for purpose of any information or other resources identified herein.

Links on this webpage are for LRLA paid member attorneys who own or operate their own Business or are members of a law firm and who maintain their information on servers located and maintained by third parties, over whom the LRLA has no control. LRLA accepts no responsibility for the information contained in this website or other third party websites and related resources found thereto, and gives no warranties as to the status, competency, effectiveness, professionalism or aptitude of any attorney to which a link on the LRLA website so leads. Furthermore, LRLA does not endorse or sponsor any of the attorneys that can be found on this website nor any resources, services, products, businesses, or organizations identified on or accessible through the links found on the LRLA webpage.

Under no circumstances will the LRLA or any of its sections, divisions, committees, subcommittees, affiliates, agents, or representatives be liable to any party for any damages (be they direct, indirect, special, consequential, or other damages) arising from any use of this webpage or the information contained herein, or any website accessible through links or other information contained on this webpage.

LRLA makes no commitment to verify or update any information set forth on this webpage.